The President's Boon Companions

(Washington cor (Sept 27th) Cincinnati Commercial

A few days since when the excitement attending the suspension of Stanton and the removal of Sheridan was at its hight the following representative men paid visits to the White House during a single day Among them the press, the bar the lobby and gentlemen of leisure were all represented And this is the story of that day

THE PRESS

At the head of the newspaper men who pay court to Johnson and receives his favor Tom Florence stands pre eminent At the tail stands the Washington sensationalist of the Boston Post also pre eminent there Between those two are stars of various magnitude, shining from the dimness of the one up towards the brightness of the other Colonel Florence, personally, is jovial and generous only stormy when at a Copperhead meeting where his revolutionary frenzy becomes sublime He is the worthy leader of the Washington Secessionists not only sharing all their prejudices, but constantly adding to make them more intense He is their envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary at the Court of Andrew He is the editor of the Evening Union In it his double leaded articles appear daily, breathing out threatenings and slaughter against Congress, in articles which, from the variety of type used to make them emphatic, give the editorial page the appearance of those specimen sheets sent out by the type founders Tom never omits his morning call at the White House The following is a fair specimen of his editorial mildness

"Men of America, are you prepared to be reduced to slavery? Is the Anglo-Saxon character so feeble and cowardly that you will not strike one blow for the institutions of your fathers, and the freedom of your posterity? We call upon you in God's name, and in the name of liberty, to rouse—to organize—and prepare to meet these insiduous and heartless tyrants? If not for your own sakes, for the sake of your children, be ready to meet the issue, and if necessary, consecrate the dying struggles of liberty and constitutional law with your blood! Democrats arouse—arouse and thoroughly organize!"

Johnnie Coyle, as the ex rebels affectionately style him, dances constant attendance for the Intelligencer ring He manages, by dint of industry, to keep the run of all Johnsonian political funds He writes down Stanton and Judge Holt because they stand in the way of $19,238 which the Intelligencer wants badly, but has no earthly claim upon If Seward shows any disinclination to help on the claim of Jere Black's client for $1,590,000 in the Guano Island case, Coyle sees to it that Seward gets a blow in the President's organ He goes over to New York to see what the whisky ring need, and returns to see what he can do for them here He brings presents from New York He praises Binckley who is expected to give an opinion that the Intelligencer could be paid $19,238 for publishing what all the other journals in the land were glad to pay for as news, namely, the report of the conspiracy trial.

N P Sawyer, during the late manifestations of the President, has occupied a high position at the White House He is a very successful soap dealer in Pittsburg, and with the results of his honorable industry purchased a small Copperhead newspaper there He comes all the way from Pittsburg to advise Johnson, and the two hold pleasant and mutually profitable intercourse, for of late Johnson is proving beyond question that the boast that his heart is with the common people is by no manner of means an idle assertion "Sawyer, of Pittsburg is Colonel Sawyer at the White House He came here one day and gave notice, in large type, that "The Grand Encampment of the United States of National Union Johnson men," would meet the next evening. Thirteen souls clambered into the Copperhead ark, and Tom. Florence thus noticed their meeting

"The National Union Johnson Club No 1, of the District of Columbia, was instituted last evening by Col N P Sawyer, Grand Chief The officers elected were duly installed in their respective positions The organization commences under the most favorable auspices, and promises to be a powerful auxiliary in attaining the great end sought, the present earnest support, besides the higher purpose in view the re-election of Andrew Johnson to the Presidency"

From the next day forward "Col N P Sawyer Grand Chief," was a favored guest at the Executive Mansion.

The Washington special who feels the pulse of certain Democratic circles for the President, helps Johnson in his Quixotic battle for the Constitution, misrepresents General Grant, reviles Sheridan and Sickles, defames organizations of Union soldiers, and does other chores of this character around the White House, is a Southern gentleman from Texas who left the Capitol when the rebels did in 1861, whose sympathy is strong for the lost cause, and who in consequence finds himself exactly in place within the Administration ring

LEGAL VISITORS.

The representatives of the legal profession on the morning in question was Col Dan O'Hara, of Chicago, Senator Patterson, of Tennessee, John M Binckley, or "Black," as he is familiarly called by the "ring," and Jere Black The first two gentlemen are evidently twins in appearance and tastes, and if not nursed from the contents of the same bottle, the contents of the bottles from which they were severally nursed were doubtless identical "Colonel Daniel O'Hara, Clerk of the Superior Court of Chicago," is exactly the style of man to obtain ready access to the White House He was an "attorney," as the latter-day term goes on the part of an applicant for the Chicago Postoffice He was for a time quite an ornament to the crew which surrounded Johnson and only allowed him to see the country through their bleared eyes

A few words must suffice for Senator Patterson He is a most valuable man in the ring, being at all times attainable, so that when the whole brood makes a combined raid upon the President, and the latter cannot attend to the new claims of all, it is often of considerable importance to present the case in a proper way to Senator Patterson As already intimated he can always be readily found Nine chances out of ten, at any hour of the day after ten in the morning he can be met at the bar room of Willard's, the bar room of the Ebbitt, at the Excelsior, half way between the two, or at a beer shop a little east of the second If he is not at any of these, he is on his way to them, or on the return to the White House from them, whence he is sure to start out again for one of them within an hour from any given time So he can generally be found He has never been lost but once He came in late one evening, evidently almost borne down by the weight of national affairs, and started up for his room An hour later he was missed, but the supposition was that he had gone back to the Excelsior for something he had forgotten But after a little while a series of unearthly cries from mid air startled the orderlies on duty, and drew attention toward the roof The Senator, it seems, had missed his count in stairways, which seems a little odd, since the Executive mansion is a two story edifice, but however inexplicable this may be the Senator had walked up into the second story and thence up a second flight and out on the flat roof under the stars It was a very romantic position But Patterson did not notice the romance so much as the roominess of the place, and the thousands of double stars in the ceiling so after a little feeling around he sat down, and, with an attempt to hold on with both hands he set up the cries which ultimately brought the orderlies to his relief

Jere Black was the third legal visitor Of his ability the country is well aware That he has changed none of the views he held under Buchanan all know that he is one of the most dangerous men of all who have the ear of the President there can be no doubt And while the character of the crowd around Johnson would have some features of which men who admire ability might be proud still it would be a dark day for the country if the nobodies who swarm in the offices of the White House should be exchanged for men of such standing as Judge Black

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC —The Grand Army of the Republic is said to be rapidly increasing its strength in the Eastern States It has already gained a firm foothold in the West In New York city it has a membership of twenty thousand An exchange declares that the tenets of the order are not political, except when loyalty and patriotism demand political action to defeat the disloyal elements," and that 'good citizens need not fear evil from the Grand Army, but rather feel encouraged that a body of loyal men, who have once saved the country, are still organized in the same cause"

Power and Duty of the President.

The following letter from ex Governor Boutwell is published in the Boston Advertiser

BOSTON, Sept 28 1867

The criticism of your correspondent, "G H G" in the Advertiser of this morning, upon the remarks made by me in July last on the veto message of the President, would be timely and proper if his views of the Constitution of the United States were sustained by the text of the instrument itself It is the assumption of your correspondent that it is the constitutional duty of the President to enforce the laws. This is the fundamental error of the article on "The President's Power," and the source of the erroneous conclusions reached by the writer The Constitution says "The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America;" but the limits to that power are to be found in the Constitution What the Constitution authorizes the President to do, that he can do, where the Constitution is silent he is powerless He is but one magistrate, though the Chief Magistrate, among many, in the government of the country They all derive their authority, either directly or indirectly, from the Constitution and laws, and any exercise of power not so derived, whether exercised by the President, by a Postmaster, or by a tide waiter, is a usurpation and a crime. The President in his oath swears to "faithfully execute the office of President of the United States;" and the Constitution, in enumerating the duties, says 'he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.'

We see herein the extent and limits of his duties and powers He is "to execute the office of President" and "take care that the laws be faithfully executed," but by the Constitution he is not authorized to execute a single law If in any case he possesses such authority, it has been conferred by statute Under his oath, in executing the office of President, he is to take care that the laws are faithfully executed This he may do and must do in the manner pointed out by the law, and it is clearly within the province of Congress to assign to particular officers of the Government the performance of specific duties, unless the Constitution has otherwise directed

By the Constitution the President is Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, but he must command in obedience to the constitutional authority of Congress "to make rules for the government of the land and naval forces" These rules may be as definite and minute as the judgment of Congress may dictate, and the President must obey them and be guided by them. From the foundation of the Government the execution of laws has been confided to other officers than the President, and he performs all his duty, exercises all his constitutional power when he takes care that the officers designated by the law are competent and faithful

Civil officers he may suspend for crime or misconduct in office, and officers of the army and the navy he may suspend, and then subject them to trial by Courts martial. In this way he takes care that the laws be faithfully executed, and therein faithfully "executes the office of President"

Nor can the President disobey a law upon the ground that it is unconstitutional. When a bill is submitted to the President for his approval, as every bill must be submitted to him, he then exercises, under the Constitution, and for the last time, his constitutional prerogative of judging whether the proposed law is constitutional or not. If he believes it to be unconstitutional he returns it to Congress with his objection thereto, and at that moment his power over the subject is exhausted. He must wait for and obey the decision of Congress

If Congress, notwithstanding the President's objections, believing the bill to be constitutional, shall pass the same by a two thirds majority of each house, it is no longer competent for the President to consider whether the law is constitutional or not It is his duty to obey. In the passage of a bill by a two thirds majority over a Presidential veto, the Legislative power is constitutionally annihilated upon that subject, and the President has no longer a constitutional right, for any reason, to interpose an obstacle to the administration of the law

If the President as your correspondent seems to maintain, may for any reason set aside a statute, or any provision of a statute duly passed according to the Constitution, whether by the President's approval or over an Executive veto, then is our Government no longer a Government of laws, but it becomes a Government of a single man.

In conclusion I will say that I do not propose to be drawn into a newspaper controversy. I have been accustomed to state my opinions with great frankness, but I do not waste my moments of leisure nor add to my hours of labor in vain attempts to satisfy others that I am in all respects correct I now write for a different reason. The article of your correspondent seems to me to be calculated to give aid and comfort to the President while he is engaged, as the country believes, in doing what in July last in the speech complained of I predicted he would do—disregard and defy the will of the nation as expressed in the laws of Congress GEORGE S BOUTWELL.

THE BIG CANAAN SNAKE —The latest intelligence of the great snake discovered at South Canaan (Conn), is given in the following letter to the Poughkeepsie Eagle of September 27th

You were correct in doubting the story of its being shot, as first published in the Amenia Times, for it was all fiction The great snake has not been killed, nor has any one attempted to shoot it. An ordinary shot gun would have no more effect on it than a pop gun on an iron clad, and a man would be called crazy who would attempt it. It has been seen every Summer for the last fifteen years in nearly the same spot. It was seen a short time ago by a gentleman of the highest respectability, who is well known, and no one would think of doubting his statements His name is A Boardman, a skillful machinist, recently employed by Ames in the manufacture of his celebrated wrought iron cannon at Falls Village. Boardman was passing along the highway where the snake had been generally seen, not thinking anything about it, when suddenly his eye caught something lying under a large elm tree, which looked like the shadow of a large limb Its shining brilliancy and the real shadow of the tree being opposite from where the object lay, the thought instantly entered his mind that it was nothing less than the big snake he had heard so much about and so it proved to be, for it immediately started for the swamp The animal having to cross the road, he had a fair view of his snakeship A thrill of horror passed through his veins as the monster crushed its way through the brush with almost the speed of lightning into the swamp and was immediately lost to sight Boardman thinks it would measure thirty inches around its body in the largest place; in fact, it appears nearly to be of one size, except three feet from the end of its tail which tapered considerably toward the end Its length he should judge to be not far from twenty-eight to thirty feet. Its skin was so black and bright that it fairly dazzled

The farmers in the vicinity complain less of the depredations of the animal than formerly On the borders of the swamp where it lives, graze large herds of cows, and it is among these it gets its living The owners of these cows have for some time past wondered why some of their best milkers had failed to give their usual quantity of milk. As it is only in the morning the owners miss it, they have come to the conclusion that the snake sucks them and thus gets its living It is well known that snakes are fond of warm, new milk, and it is this kind of food no doubt, that has caused this one to grow to such immense proportions

There is a reward of one hundred dollars offered by a private citizen for its capture alive, and fifty if killed There is a strong pressure bearing on the town authorities to offer a reward large enough to secure its capture or destruction, and the subject will be brought before our annual town meeting the first Monday in October Hundreds who attended the camp meeting lately held here, came more for the purpose of seeing where this monster snake lived than to seek for the straight and narrow way Few could be induced to stay on the ground nights for fear it might make them a visit It was this thing more than any other that made the meeting almost a failure One man has determined to sell his farm and leave the place His wife has already left and says she will never live on the place again until the snake is killed There is a perfect panic among the people, and what will be the result time alone can determine.

How an "Enlightened" Austrian Views the American Situation

The Neue Freie Presse, of Vienna, in a late issue, has an admirable article on "The next President of the United States," which the Portland (Maine) Press translated at length, and from which we cull the following

"It by no means requires the wisdom of a great statesman to foresee that when during the coming year a Presidential election takes place in the United States, the majority of the [illegible] will decide neither for a re-election of Andrew Johnson nor for the election of any man who through his [illegible] — the fear that he may be disposed to conduct and direct the Government in the spirit of the present Administration—in a world, to pursue that policy [illegible] which the Congress of the United States has no distinctly [illegible]

There is no longer any doubt that the Democrats and the incorrigible Secessionists have lost all chance of raising to the Presidency next year a man after their own hearts, but it is to be expected from the well known [illegible] enemies of truthful statesmanship, the great inconsiderable minority but [illegible] "Big Man's Party," that they will not [illegible] the victory which may be [illegible] a [illegible] Under such [illegible] it is of interest even for Europe [illegible] to direct their eyes to the man who has every prospect of becoming Johnson's [illegible] and of whom the [illegible] party, the true defenders of the Constitution dare to [illegible] that he is [illegible] than any other [illegible] with [illegible] moderation and steady hand to [illegible] the work of [illegible] by Lincoln, in the spirit of that [illegible]

"The [illegible] party has only two [illegible] who have any [illegible] the [illegible] tion, next [illegible] of the [illegible] leaving [illegible] of the Union for the [illegible] or which the [illegible] to bestow. SCHUYLER COLFAX VIEWS.—The Chicago Tribune publishes the following letter from Schuyler Colfax, giving his views on [illegible] and the duty of Congress:

SOUTH BEND, IND., Sept 27, 1867.

Your telegraphic [illegible] from Wooster, Ohio, [illegible] my long [illegible] I here [illegible] into the following half [illegible]

"In regard to [illegible] Mr. C. said he longingly [illegible] the [illegible] till Congress [illegible] again [illegible] when Andrew Johnson [illegible] he brought him the Senate for [illegible] and in regard to the threat attributed to the President that he would [illegible] Congress, [illegible] that Mr. Johnson [illegible] not [illegible] it, for well he [illegible] the end would be that his feet would [illegible] air, while the law-making power would [illegible] to perform its [illegible]

That was pretty [illegible] I said; but as, at a time like this, men who are in public life [illegible] be judged on their [illegible] may I ask brief [illegible] in your [illegible] to say that I [illegible] the [illegible] till C[illegible] in [illegible] days [illegible] that [illegible] would be back [illegible] to the War Department in spite of the [illegible] who [illegible] to expel him [illegible] he had [illegible] that if [illegible] the [illegible] of the loyal on the [illegible] to place the [illegible] the Cr[illegible] the charges of [illegible] and [illegible] violations of the oath [illegible] him to take care that the laws [illegible] and that, while I did not [illegible] Mr Johnson dared to fulfill the [illegible] now made by his W[illegible] his news, yet wh[illegible] did dare to [illegible] the legislative department of the Government, by revolutionary [illegible] he would be tried for his [illegible] and punished as a traitor, with his feet, not like the traitors of the [illegible] rebellion, on the earth, but in the air.

After the Crimean War, a young [illegible] in the House of Commons were [illegible] on which one of the members [illegible] "My [illegible] fellow, now that the war is over, why don't you put your [illegible] on the peace establishment?" "Had you not better put your tongue on the civil list?" was the prompt retort.

Suffrage in New England.

It does not surprise us to find it stated in the Herald that "the Republican party has adopted negro suffrage in the New England States, with the exception of Democratic Connecticut," and that this circumstance, "establishes the fact that it is a Republican doctrine, for in every instance that party comprised a majority of the people who assented to it." We say it does not surprise us; for, though these statements are both historically untrue, we do not expect the paper which has put them forth to adhere to truth or to follow history in any political discussion. Either dishonesty forbids it on the one hand, or ignorance prevents it on the other, from confining itself to a recital of facts when it seeks to make out a case against political opponents. While we do not think it would be a crushing indictment against the Republicans to admit (if it were true) that they enacted negro suffrage in all the New England States except Democratic Connecticut," we repel the statement as an historical untruth, and affirm that the Republican party has not adopted negro suffrage in any Northern State, (except in the case of Nebraska, lately admitted), and that with this exception, so far as anything of the kind has been done since the parties now in existence were organized, the Democrats are entitled to bear the sole honor of it. Prior to the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, negroes voted in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, and North Carolina. In the first three of these States they have retained the right of suffrage to the present time. In 1791 Vermont came into the Union with impartial suffrage. Maine followed in 1820. The present Constitution of Rhode Island went into effect in 1842, and under it negroes have the elective franchise. Thus in the five New England States where impartial suffrage is the rule, the measure was adopted long before the Republican party had an existence; and in some of them, long before the Democratic party was thought of, there was no distinction of political rights on account of color. Even in "Democratic Connecticut," prior to 1818, negroes had the right of suffrage. In that year a new Constitution was adopted, limiting the elective franchise to white persons. In the State of New York, negroes have always retained the right of suffrage which they possessed before the adoption of the Constitution of the United States. Though colored persons once had the right to vote in New Jersey and North Carolina, the franchise in those States was subsequently restricted to white male citizens. In Ohio, all nearer white than black have always been allowed to vote. No Northern State, with the exception above mentioned, has adopted negro suffrage since the Republican party had an existence. But the Democratic party adopted negro suffrage in Ohio, voted to continue it in New York, and was always [illegible] to it in New England till the slave power rose to so great a height and that party made it its [illegible] to oppress the [illegible] race. It then took the suffrage from the blacks in Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee. Thirty or forty years ago the negroes used to vote almost en masse with the Democratic party. This was when that party was the champion of the idea of equal [illegible] rights. When the Democratic party changed its policy in reference to this question, the negroes were sensible enough to change too. The "Democracy" are in a fair way to discover the [illegible] of their mistake. They may read the result in the Southern elections.

A correspondent of the New York Evening Post, writing from Mississippi, says: "A while ago it [illegible] quite probable that the negro vote might be divided, and that many, out of personal regard for [illegible], might be induced to vote for [illegible]. But [illegible] going into their [illegible] will soon be assured that, whatever else they may do or not do, they will never vote for any man or new [illegible] that will throw the political power of the State into the hands of their late masters. They may like 'old Massa,' but they will know, and always say it among themselves and with the [illegible] they trust politically, that they will never vote with him. It is undoubtedly an evil that a few men will control this immense vote of the freed [illegible]. But it is an [illegible] of the situation, and it could not well be otherwise. It is probable that five men will rule Mississippi, and it is equally unfortunate that these men are not our best men. Nothing is more natural than that adventurers, for selfish ends, should seize the party reins and drive the whole machinery of the party. But the certainty that they can succeed only as they work in harmony with republicanism will prevent their straying from the policy of the party. Policy will make them act as if they were honest and shut out many [illegible] into which [illegible] might otherwise lead [illegible]. There are many Republicans here who [illegible] of this feature of [illegible] policy, but it was a [illegible] of the situation [illegible] to the [illegible] of the blacks [illegible] to curb the spirit of rebellion that survived its surrender, and [illegible] to preserve the fruits of our success on the battle-field."

NEW YORK CITY.—The [illegible] vote of New York city is 80,000; the native 38,000. In 1866, over 55,000 [illegible] old enough to vote were arrested for crime.

"SMART" INDIANS.—The Boise Statesman of the 22d has the following:

The Indians who have been annoying the settlers living in the lower end of this valley, for the last two or three years, display no little wisdom in the character of their docile hostility. They show all the cunning and foresight usually necessary to the success in business of their more practiced and civilized white brothers. They could send to heaven every soul down there in any single night they might choose, but that course would frustrate their well conceived plans for the procurement of grub and plunder. Their object is supplies; and they evince more strategic ability in the management of their commissary department than did Gen. Banks in any of his brilliant campaigns against the rebels. They do not burn, nor pillage, nor lay waste fields and stacks of grain, for that would not be in accordance with their programme; nor do they wish by any unfriendly acts to drive the settlers off the premises. But they just come peacefully during the night, and in a docile manner run off all the horses and nice beef cattle which they are fortunate enough to surround. To go to murdering would only be to frighten off the surviving whites and prevent others from coming in, thus cutting off their source of supplies. The intervals between their raids are usually long enough to almost give the assurance that they will not come again, when another and successful dash is made upon stock. By this means our citizens down there are in a continual state of uneasiness and anxiety, not knowing what time the sport may be ended by a scalping knife scene.

The Indians have crossed Snake river four times this fall, taking off in all twenty-three head of horses. They visited Mr. Ledley's ranch about thirty miles below here, last week, and took away ten horses from his and other ranches in the vicinity. This continual drain will soon deplete the number of work animals to such an extent that the farmers will be compelled to suspend operations unless measures are taken whereby it can be stopped. Some of them are already in such a crippled condition that work for the time being is partially stopped. They have become so embarrassed finally, that the people have organized a company for their better protection, and Mr. Wm. Gess came up last week in the endeavor to procure arms for that purpose. When horses were stolen from one man, the Indians would be well out of harm's way before he could alarm the neighbors soon enough to pursue and retake them. By having a number of men well armed, they could follow up the Indians by immediate pursuit and with a better chance of success. Mr. Gess did not succeed in getting a sufficient number of guns, but returned with what he had. Captain Barry, we believe, furnished him with six pieces. Mr. G. says that unless these depredations are discontinued, the ranchmen will have to give up their places and leave the valley in despair.

When rescued she was apparently in an almost helpless condition. She stated that while proceeding to her home a short time before, she was seized by two men, one of them masked, who partly stupified her with chloroform, hurried her into a carriage, drove off and threw her from the bridge near the place where she was found. Some months ago, she went before the grand jury and procured the indictment of A. J. Stevenson, for an alleged outrage upon her person. The trial is to come off next term of court. It is thought by some persons that she got into the creek herself and concocted the story of abduction and attempted murder, for the effect it would have on this trial.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 28.—A military express has just arrived from Fort Klamath, which brings the information that General Crook was defeated on the 17th inst., about twenty miles from Goose Lake valley, by a band of Pi-Ute and Pitt river warriors, numbering about one hundred. Gen. Crook's command consisted of forty men of company H, U. S. Cavalry, and although finding the Indians strongly entrenched in the rocks, he fought them for two days, until compelled to retire with the loss of Lieut. Manigan and six men killed and twenty wounded. It was thought that about twenty Indians were killed, but it was difficult to ascertain the actual damage done to the enemy. Gen. Crook sent a Sergeant to Fort Klamath with dispatches, and is now supposed to be about the upper end of Goose Lake valley, waiting for assistance.

A DRUNKEN HOUSEHOLD.—Those who are acquainted with Johnson's habits say that his general condition is scarcely better than it was at the time of his inauguration as Vice President. On this point we take the following deplorable picture from the Washington correspondent of the Detroit Post. He says:

People often wonder whether the President still is in the habit of drinking. I can say positively that he does; that he is a steady, persistent brandy and whisky drinker, and, worse than that, the White House contains, for the first time since it was built, a drinking, drunken family. The President is a steady drinker. He is what the temperance men call "a moderate drinker." His son Robert, who is one of his private secretaries, is a sot. He is beastly drunk for days together. His son-in-law, Senator Patterson, who lives in the White House, is a terrible drinker. He never gets drunk, but he is not far off from delirium tremens. He sallies out every hour or two to Whitney's restaurant to take a full tumbler raw whisky. Nine men out of ten would die in a year of his habits. He swills enough raw whisky to slaughter a regiment of men, and yet continues to do duty as a Senator.

The Democratic party boasts of its "toleration" in politics. The "toleration" which it has shown is too familiar to those who remember the history of the anti-slavery struggle from its inception to its close, to need to be recalled in any detail. It is written out plainly in the shooting of Lovejoy, the coats of tar and feathers furnished to Abolitionists, the bludgeon of Brooks, the bloody story of Kansas and the massacre of New Orleans. These are proofs of "toleration" in politics which we will not question.

THE COMBINATION OF INGREDIENTS used in making "Brown's Bronchial Troches" is such as to give the best possible effect with safety. The Troches are used always with good success, and are widely known as the best remedy for Coughs, Colds, Throat Diseases, and Asthmatic troubles.

Honor to General Sheridan.

The Governor of New York has written a letter to General Sheridan inviting him to visit Albany. Following is the letter:

STATE OF NEW YORK, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
Albany, September 23, 1867.

Major General Phillip H. Sheridan, U. S. A., New York City—Dear General: I rejoice that you have consented to visit the city of New York in your course toward the West. This opportunity to see and to welcome you will be to our people an event of no common interest. Early learning to honor and be proud of your gallant and heroic leadership in the field, we have been taught, also, to honor and be profoundly grateful for the skill and wisdom you have displayed in the discharge of high administrative trusts. Louisiana has been your field of triumph no less than Virginia, and the firmness and patriotism which distinguished your command in the former have entitled you to the thanks and admiration of the people no less than your brilliant generalship in the latter. We honor alike your genius for war and your courage for the right, and we shall esteem it a rare privilege to extend to you personal greeting. A people can give no higher evidence of their determination and fitness for freedom than by honoring, with every public and private manifestation of fervent regard, those who have nobly defended their imperilled rights and liberties. Animated by the deepest gratitude toward those, especially, who have led them in their latest and severest struggle for the Republic, they have watched your entire course of unbroken success with eager interest, and in the hasty approval of General Grant they find the expression of their own unqualified commendation. My purpose, in this note, was not to speak of that career which is so familiar to all, and so proudly cherished by the American people; but to invite you to the capital of the State, after you have concluded your visit in New York. It will greatly delight the people to have you visit the seat of Government, where the gratitude which they rejoice to manifest in their own homes can find a greater measure of public expression. Not only as the Capital, but as one of the oldest cities of the land, Albany has a history full of interest to every patriotic citizen. Here, more than a century ago, a council of sterling men met to deliberate upon the means of securing a more perfect union of the colonies. The subsequent history of the Capital and of the people is a history of efforts to advance the cause of liberty and build up one of the greatest pillars of the Union—a free and mighty State. On behalf of the people and for myself I cordially invite you to afford us this further opportunity of testifying our appreciation of your eminent services, and earnestly hope you will find yourself able to gratify our wishes.

Very respectfully,
R. E. FENTON.

DO NOT BE SHY!—As you pass No. 91 Front street, do not start to pass without dropping in to examine the extensive stock of Fine and Custom Made Clothing, Dry Goods, etc., KOHN & FISHEL keep for sale. Once in the Store, you will surely never regret having come there, as the quality and price of the Goods will so please you that whether you need them or not you will buy them, anyhow.

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched in India ink—painted in water-colors or oil by Mrs. S. J. Rumsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

Fire at Union.—We have a letter from Union, Union county, Oct. 23d, detailing the facts of the burning of Mr. Hannah's residence on that day. It says: "On the morning of the present inst., about eight o'clock, the residence of Mr. Hannah, and the adjoining buildings, excepting only his granary, were consumed by fire. The cause was a spark from the stove pipe catching into the shingles and spreading for a considerable distance unperceived. A few gold specimens were discovered after the flames had subsided; but so intense were they before any considerable number of people arrived, that all attempts to enter the house to save anything were unavailing. Even the wearing apparel of the family was not recovered. Mrs. Hannah, who had left her child in bed and had gone to her husband's store on some errand, noticed the fire as soon as she started for home and called to her husband that his house was on fire and the child would be burnt. Mr. Hannah ran to the house and entered the window of the bedroom where the child was left. He then could have saved the contents of that room, but the child was not there, and to find it was his first object. Fortunately it was safe in the care of a lady who was an inmate of his household at the time. The granary was saved only by the strenuous exertions of all; yet the promptness and confidence of Mr. Johnson deserve special mention in this connection. The loss was not less than $3,500 and may reach $4,000.

Coroner's Inquest.—The Coroner of Multnomah county, Dr. Poppleton, yesterday called a jury to hold an inquest upon the body of Joseph Long, who was drowned last Friday evening. Drs. Mack, Hawthorne and Bisch, were summoned as witnesses and medical experts. We understand that the body was disinterred and that the physicians made a thorough examination of the brain, stomach and other parts, for the purpose of determining the cause of death. They found no evidences to disturb the theory that the man was drowned accidentally. The jury returned the following verdict:

We, the jurors called and sworn as coroner's jury to hold an inquest on the body of a deceased person called "Fisherman Jo," found dead on the east bank of the Willamette river, do find the name of the deceased to be Joseph Long; that his death was caused by accidental drowning on the evening of the 25th inst., between the hours of five and six o'clock. Signed C. Hopkins, foreman, A. M. [illegible], F. B. Mett[illegible], C. W. Higgins, Robert Patton and W. R. Cooper.

An Editor's Library.—One of our Idaho exchanges, whose editor is temporarily absent, and whose columns are presided over by a namelses "devil," publishes the following list of books found in the editor's sanctum the morning after he departed, and which, the sub says, "are now carefully stowed away in the back yard:" "Life of John Bunyan; Impending Crisis; Life of Fred Douglas; Watt's Hymns; Life of Horace Greeley; Abbott's History of the Civil War; Petroleum V. Nasby's Book; Uncle Tom's Cabin; Episcopal book of prayer; Dr. Livingstone's Africa; Memoirs of a Country Editor; The Woman in White; The Pirate's Own; The Apiary; Mrs. Whipple's book of Mormonism; Colenso's Dictionary; Work on Obstetrics; The Veterinary Surgeon; How to cure Corns; The Irrepressible Conflict; Courtship Made Easy; Dream Book; Ingoldsby's book, Grant and his Generals; Gambling Exposed; One Thousand Recipes; and a lot of patent office reports and Sunday school tracts."

From Lewiston—The Steamer "Lewiston."—A private letter from Lewiston, dated Oct. 22d, says: "The long looked-for steamer Lewiston arrived yesterday about noon, and departed this morning for Wallula. She is a staunch little craft, and when her cabin is constructed, she will [illegible] power[illegible]. In starting out this [illegible] she "just slashed things"—going faster than I have ever seen any of the O. S. Co.'s steamers, in leaving this place. She passed over the rapids without touching, and made the trip in thirty-five hours, traveling time, and did not throw out a line at all. Everything is dull here. Q[illegible] is the only hope of Lewiston. The indications [illegible] for that, thus far, are very good. One 5-stamp mill arrived at Warren's diggings some time ago, and Leland's will arrive there in about a week from this time."

A Year Old.—The Oregon City Enterprise, published and edited by D. C. Ireland, began its second volume with the issue of last Saturday. When Bro. Ireland [illegible] his publication, it was considered extremely doubtful whether the undertaking could be carried [illegible] year, but the result has been quite different. [illegible] has not only lived but grown apparently [illegible] and healthy, having been once enlarged through [illegible] of advertising patronage, and is now a [illegible] institution to Clackamas and the adjoining counties. [illegible] is a natural news-monger and if his [illegible] do not get all the current [illegible] worth knowing it is [illegible] only not his fault. We wish for the second [illegible] of the Enterprise double the prosperity of the first.

[illegible].—Wm. Brown was arraigned before Justice [illegible], yesterday, on a charge of assault and battery upon Henry Darby, to which Brown pleaded guilty. The [illegible] for the State [illegible] Darby, Dr. Gibson and Mr. Carter, the latter of whom was with Darby at the time of the attack. From their testimony, [illegible] that there was an assault with a dangerous [illegible], Brown was held to answer, and committed to jail in default [illegible]. Frank Soule, the person arrested with Brown, on the same charge, was missing, having been [illegible] by the sheriff to go at large upon the [illegible] of $50 bail. We are informed that Justice [illegible] to accept the bail money. Soule will [illegible] if he has not got out of reach, on a charge of an [illegible] with a dangerous weapon.

An Uptown Hunter.—One of our shootingest, there are [illegible] of them in this city—went down the river on [illegible] day, and while [illegible] for ducks in a marsh, saw a deer plunging through the brush, coming directly toward him. Hunter waited till the deer came within range, then banged away with first one barrel of his gun and then the other. Deer came on, rip-pe-te-snort; hunter clubbed his gun, and as the deer came within reach, dealt him a tremendous blow which hit the deer all over; the gun barrel [illegible] in hunter's hands, the stock flew about twenty feet away, and the deer went on, if not well, yet alive. Hunter came sorrowfully home and counted up his losses; Item, two loads of No. 6 bird shot; item, one gun stock; item, one deer.

[illegible] and Deviltry.—Mr. B. F. Cardwell has, [illegible] furnished us the following extract from a letter written by Mr. Jos. Pinkham, dated Umatilla, Oct. 20th: "I have just received a letter from my brother. He writes me that the Indians had killed a man near [illegible] City, and taken his wife a prisoner. It seems that they were coming from one of the military posts in a [illegible], when they were fired on by the Los, about twenty in number. The woman was sick, and she was so [illegible] when her husband was shot, that she got out of the wagon and ran directly among the Indians. The other man, who was along, got away. When he last saw the [illegible], the Indians were dancing around her."

An [illegible] Impression.—In conversing with various people we find that an erroneous impression prevails with many in regard to the effect of the late order relieving Bt. Brig. Gen. Babbitt from duty as Quartermaster of this military Department. It does not dispense with his services nor even relieve him from active duty, unless he may have temporary leave of absence. On the [illegible], he has not long since received promotion, and we learn that he has been ordered to active service at [illegible], and will soon depart for his new field of duty. The General will be followed by the best wishes of the many friends he has made in Portland.

A Cache of Cash.—It is reported that a cache of about $700, gold coin, was unearthed, yesterday, by some workmen who were grading on Second street. One of the hands struck a sack with his pick, turning up "in [illegible]" in the shape of twenties and "went after" them with both [illegible]. He made the best possible time in [illegible] them to his pockets, securing about $400; but the other workmen perceiving the kind of diggings their [illegible] had struck, joined in a general scramble for the [illegible] among them, got about $300. It is said that the scene was about the liveliest one for a few minutes that ever occurred in that part of the city.

[illegible].—The [illegible] of last Saturday, in an article on the fruits and vegetables of Clackamas county, says: "We [illegible] that the Isabellas grown by Mr. [illegible] from grafts on the California vine, have matured to good advantage this season. Mr. Blanchard will harvest something over 1,200 lbs. from one vine on [illegible]. In most localities in Oregon, [illegible] have not succeeded well—there are exceptions, of [illegible] of the shortness of the [illegible] be that Mr. Blanchard's experiment of grafting on California roots, will be found very useful as an example.

[illegible]'s Court.—The following were the proceedings of yesterday in the Recorder's court:

[illegible], charged with larceny, was discharged.

B. N. Smith, for being drunk and disorderly, was sent to jail for ten days.

Mary Mack, charged with stealing money from Caroline Cavalier, on Second street, was held to answer the charge in the Circuit court, and was committed to jail.

Chas. Higgins, arrested in Washington county and brought here on a charge of stealing a horse, proved to be the wrong man, and was discharged.

Arrested on the Charge of Murder.—A man named Henry Walker was arrested a day or two since on complaint lodged before Recorder Hoffman, charging him with the murder of Jos. Long and was confined in the jail to await the result of the investigation, yesterday, by the Coroner. There were some suspicions that foul play had been practiced and it is said that there were circumstances which justified their existence. The result of the Coroner's inquest will probably put a quietus upon all such speculations. Walker will have an examination this morning, before the Recorder.

Unpaid Letters.—The following letters remain in the postoffice at this place, for want of prepayment of postage. The writers should call and stamp them: Miss M. E. Ward, Albany, Or; J. T. Hazelwood, Blandesville; Miss H. Sunderland, Multnomah county; Messrs. Drake & Jackson, Victoria, V. I.; J. R. Rinde, San Francisco; Batt Dolling, Victoria, V. I.; Sarah Hays, Olympia, W. T.; Mrs. Wm. Kohl, Victoria, V. I.; Miss Hattie Brownell, Little Compton, R. I.; M. A. Hays, Albany, Or; Mr. Plamondon, Salem, Or; Captain Cochran, Oregon City.

Mail Arrangements.—There has long been a complaint that the mail from Portland via Lafayette to Corvallis did not connect properly with the mails from Salem. Mr. Brooks, special agent, has been giving the matter his attention, and he informs us that he has so arranged the mail schedules that there will hereafter be a regular connection at Rickreal postoffice on Mondays. The mails leave Salem on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at half past twelve, arriving at Rickreal at about the same hour as the mail from Lafayette.

The Cosmo Troupe is really improving every night. The [illegible] of several new artists lately, serves to give variety and at the same time to gratify the tastes of those who love good singing. We were pleased to notice quite a number of ladies in the audience last evening. The Cosmo will play to-night, an attractive programme.

The Challenge of the Pioneers by the Spartans.—The following notice is from the Pioneer B. B. club:

Mr. Editor:—In your issue of 28th inst, we notice an item in relation to the Spartan B. B. Club challenging the Pioneers to a match game etc. In reply thereto, we beg leave to state through your column that we have received such a challenge, but as there is at present a match game pending between that club and our second nine, we cannot, with propriety, until the present game is decided, accept such challenge.

Accident to a Telegraph Operator.—The Ren[illegible] arrived from Monticello, yesterday, bringing the information that the telegraph operator at Pumphrey's met with a serious accident on Saturday last. The line beyond Pumphrey's was down and the operator went out in search of the break. When about seven miles beyond the station, while descending a steep hill, his horse fell down with him, falling upon and badly breaking one of his legs below the knee and near the ankle.

Passengers for Portland.—The steamship Sierra Nevada sailed from San Francisco on Saturday the 26th, for this port, with the following list of passengers: R. W. Heath, J. H. Smith and family, Julius Kramer, Jno. Wilson, G. Thatcher, P. H. Cumming, Jas Smith and family, J. R. Lake, J. W. Cowle, M. Baram, L. Sloss, W. Meral, E. D. Buckenloe, W. B. Norman, Mrs. J. P. Reeves and seven children, and 20 in the steerage.

Ducks.—Messrs. Richardson, Clark and Carter returned yesterday from a shooting expedition some sixteen miles down the river. They had something less than a thousand ducks among them, requiring something less than fifteen drays to haul them up from the steamer; but they had some ducks, you bet. By the way, ye local editor received divers and sundries of them, for which the donor has our thanks.

The Senator.—The damages to this steamer by the breaking of her shaft, having been very nearly repaired, she was run up to Oregon City yesterday. There is some carpenter work yet to do to put her in first rate order. She will, in a few days, again take her accustomed place in the trade between this city and Oregon City.

Races at the White House.—The races advertised last week to commence on Thursday last, having been postponed in consequence of bad weather, will open today, at the Riverside track.

Wheat.—The wheat market remains unchanged, the range [illegible] from 90c to $1 10. There is, however, very little wheat offered, and these quotations are but little more than nominal.

Change of Time.—Hereafter, until further notice, the Fannie Troup will leave Portland for Vancouver, each day, at half past two o'clock, instead of three o'clock.

Religious.—The Union Prayer and Conference Meeting this evening will be in the M. E. Church. All are invited.

Signed the Bond.—Karman Bros., in order to get their large stock from aboard the steamer Oriflamme, signed the bond under protest, and are to-day opening out their stock of Clothing on corner of Front and Morrison St.

Personal.—Mr. A. B. Elfelt, late of the firm of A. B. Elfelt & Co., left on the steamer Oriflamme for San Francisco, to take charge of the new house of which he is a member—successors to J. Seligman & Co. Mr. Elfelt is well known here and has a high reputation as a man of integrity, and his many friends part with him with regret. So far as the house in Portland is concerned, Mr. Elfelt leaves worthy successors in the firm of L. Goldsmith & Co.

Wholesale Saddlery Establishment.—In this morning's paper will be found the advertisement of S. Sherlock & Co., wholesale and retail dealers in saddlery, harness and all the articles usually found in such establishments. The house has a good reputation for manufacturing excellent goods, in their line. Dealers in the interior would do well to give them a call before making their purchases.

Removal.—Dr. Black has lately removed his place of residence to Washington street, between Fourth and Fifth, where his patrons may find him at other than office hours.

The Proprietor of the Lafayette Restaurant takes pleasure in informing his friends and the public in general, that from this date, and during the oyster season, he will keep his establishment open at night until 2 o'clock A. M., and will serve Oysters and Suppers in every style.
PIERRE MANCIET.

From Judge Marquam.—I have used Henley's Royal Balsam for a bad cough, and I find it a splendid medicine. I have recommended it to a great many. They speak very highly of the medicine, and I freely recommend it to the public.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.
Prevents Fever and Ague and Billious Remittent Fevers, Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water; invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels;
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.
REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.
Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether [illegible] in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.
NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.
The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.
Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.
As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.
Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Migration

There's a trouble among the birds
 I hear them chirp and cry
As hither and thither they flit about
 Under the gloomy sky

For "The Autumn time has come,"
 So the feathered travelers say
"The Summer has gone and, comrades, we Must soon take wing away"

There's a sad change night at hand
 There's a chill breath in the air
And the bird that's wise will take his leave
 Ere the woods and fields are bare

The little birds fly in flocks
 With a hurried and fitful flight
And the changing wild geese overhead
 I hear in the dusky night

For the Summer has flown and they
 Will her flying steps pursue
To a land where the grass and leaves are green
 And the sky is bright and blue

I wish you a merry trip
 Ye birds both great and small
And when with Spring, ye come again,
 I will welcome you one and all

I must some time fly, like you
 Of a happier land in quest
But never again shall my wanderers
 Return to their olden nest

I shall there, I trust, find those
 Gone before to that true home,
And thence while we fly to and fro
 I shall not wish to roam.

We are birds of passage all
 Through whatsoever air;
And well will it be with all, 'neath
 One loving Father's care.
 —N. Y. Evening Gazette

The Country Tavern.

In the first place, and to begin at the beginning it was a wonderful mart for coaches They stood almost under every shed that made a convenient lean to in the spacious yard, and in nearly every stage of existence—from the freshly varnished one, just come in, to the pot-bellied old veteran that had patiently carried well nigh a whole generation over the hills. On some the dust was piled thickly, stable boys were busy washing up the wheels of others, here and there was a decriped customer unquestionably crippled by an uncalculating whip with a cruel overload, but the prevailing expression of the yard was that of coaches Had the place been cleared of them at a single vigorous sweep it would have looked as empty as a library with the books all gone from the shelves.

In the center of the tavern court yard, a pump, with a jolly squeak that seemed to start up business all about the place. Horses were led out to the great trough under the nose, and sometimes shied away from the boys who led them, swirling and tearing back to the stable again. A long and broad "stoop" behind the low roofed house, [illegible] set pails, [illegible] baskets and other housekeeping utensils—a very miscellaneous assortment, Beds crammed out through the upper back windows, for a brief morning airing. Doves wheeling and tumbling about or setting up their monotonous domestic cries close under the barn eaves.

There used to be a wide and spacious hall, reaching from the front entrance of the house, and a broad and inviting porch, the picture of hospitality, with an ample seat on either side, projected therefrom. It was all smooth and faultlessly clean about the door, the short grass making a green margin for a carriage drive for vehicles of all sorts, and many a time, to come up composedly before the windows. Lights were flashing, and cherry wood fires blazing in the great square rooms when the laden coach rattled up to the door, just at night in late Autumn; and never was sincerer welcome extended to weary [illegible] away from their home-hearth, than came playing and dancing forth from those flames into their eyes The portly landlord—best evidence of his own tavern fare—bustled in and out of the rooms, explaining to one where he could be accommodated with "traveler's rest," and showing another into the wash-room; now stirring up the fire with a fresh inspiration of industry, and now suddenly retreating to answer a call in the low studded bar-room. He was himself genial to all; put general questions and made general answers to all particular ones; and gave over no particular effort until he saw for himself that every man, woman and child had fallen naturally into place in his own family circle, and satisfied his own judgment that they were thoroughly comfortable and happy.

Ha!—why, bless your heart! he made it a point in his education as an accomplished publican to qualify himself to "talk politics"—though not to [illegible] upon it when [illegible] judge, lawyer and public character whom the coach—which, to him, stood for the world—might [illegible] to bring to his door." He would have felt illy adapted to his station had he come short in so important a particular. Nowadays the very boys talk politics, with unabashed vociferousness, and even the women, too; and the wise man is he who shuts tight his lips and stays, like a hermit or a turtle, with his own wisdom at home All the ministers the country round he knew by creed and [illegible]; and he would dispense as full and fair a judgment on both, in a few shrewdly wise phrases, as they could themselves have passed on their own doctrines and in their own pulpits. He was the genius loci, and unless his familiar and [illegible] at [illegible] the traveler as he drove up to share his welcome entertainment, he seemed to have missed of the pith of his visit altogether. For food and lodging were not quite all the stranger expected to find there; he looked for a share of the landlord's cheery greeting and cordial conversation.

Between the people of the neighborhood and their wonted recreations he served as a sort of connecting link, or substantial hyphen. If anything was going on, or was about to go on, our jolly host could whisper you all there was in it, because it had been invariably concerted at tavern headquarters. More business—in the line of pleasure—was here set on foot than anywhere else in the town or the country round about. The landlord must needs be consulted [illegible] or the sel[illegible] party, [illegible] of a circle of [illegible] of that sort. Was there a [illegible] Autumn? Never until [illegible] the picking [illegible] in his dining room [illegible] much care, and the whole [illegible] at his hands.

If a drover stopped over night [illegible] could answer every one of [illegible] for local news while he was twirling [illegible] in his custom[illegible]. [illegible] a family party, on an excursion of pleasure across the country, "put up" with him till the next morning!—he was at the door as quick as they were at the step themselves, and made it hard for them to believe they had wandered very far from their own threshold, after all. The man, in fact, was like his inn, broad, welcoming, sunny, domestic, full of light and life, and withal as plain as he was sincere. These latter times seem to demand no such characters in their hasty service, and therefore none such are to be found.

The stage coach driver was a feature of the Old Tavern, as distinct as the landlord's self. Muffled in winter, in his huge gray woolen tie, and nestled in warm robes that defiantly flung off the arrows of the season, he was the passing envy of half the rosy girls, and all the little boys the country round. What a reverberating ti ra tira la! he shook out from the nozzle of that well worn horn of his, as he crept over the summit of the hill from which he could see the roofs and smokes of the Tavern! Countless were the errands intrusted to his elastic memory, and his perennial spring of good nature made their prompt discharge worth double what they were taxed for in his daily reckonings He was, perforce, in the confidence of half the girls along the road, and they would have felt sadly slighted if he had failed even for a single time, in the dextrous acknowledgment of their stolen smiles and glances He could tell you, if he chose and if you were lucky enough to ride on the box with him, who was likely to "catch" this one, and who not long ago got the "mitten" from that A very fund, nay a strong box of dear little secrets was he and the key was kept hid where none but the owners of their property could find it for themselves

At the tavern were consummated cattle swaps and horse trades uncounted It served for their exchange and never did dicker or jockey occur, but the profit and loss were each congratulated and consoled with sundry drinks at the bar At all hours of the day, and through all seasons of the year, a fly a sulky, or a skeleton gig, could be seen somewhere about the yard, the property in horse flesh changing hands so rapidly that one could with difficulty trace it along to its last holder In fact, the capacious stables were piled and mottled inwardly with all varieties of steeds from the showy and shiny bay to the ewe necked and cat hammed drudge of the shiftless jockey, and their study would have held the eye of the naturalist not less than of the fancier

The upper hall, of winter evenings frequently blazed with multitudinous tallow lights, and resounded to the inspiring strains of violin and clarionet There the good folks enjoyed hearty times indeed, no mincing and tossing while the airs of Strauss were played so divinely—no loud and rude estimates, such as one is compelled to hear now, of the value of the very clothes one had on, or of a partner's necklace already blooming and bouncing enough in modest muslin—but right-down enjoyment all round the spot, as if that was the very thing they came for And they never went home without having it Nor were the other occasions of the year at all cast into the shadow by these sundry ball-and party "good times" the suppers and private feasts enjoyed under that sheltering roof were matters to stick to the memory of a man long after their flavors were lost to his palate Thus did the dull days shut in as much pleasure there as the sunny ones, it was all sunshine at the Old Tavern and the prime expression of the place was one of comfort and warmth and careful attention —Thomas [illegible], in "[illegible]"

A Miss Kingsing, a German woman who recently died in Warren county, Ohio, left an estate of $20,000 to $40 000 for building and supporting an orphan asylum A local paper gives this explanation In her youth, in Germany, she had a lover to whom she was tenderly attached but friends interfering they were not allowed to marry and pledged themselves to each other never to marry Years after her lover died unmarried, leaving a large sum of money to found an orphan asylum at Frankfort, Germany Subsequently Miss Kingsing was entitled to an estate in Germany, and thereupon devoted a large portion of it to swell the fund bequeathed by her lover, and now her death reveals the fact that she has devoted the bulk of her property to found a similar institution at the home of her adoption

ROMAN ANTIQUITIES IN ENGLAND —Rev. Mr Kell the Southampton antiquary, states that upwards of one thousand eight hundred coins of Roman Emperors were dug up recently at the Military Hospital at Netley on Southampton Water England, that more than half of them were Tetricuses senior and junior and that a great many of them belong to Victorinus and Claudius Gothicus Mr Kell thinks this confirms the opinion that these Emperors assumed the sovereignty of Britain and that the headquarters of Tetricus was at Clausentum, about four miles from Netley At Clausentum at Cadenham in the New Forest and at Sholing, three miles from Netley, Roman coins have been found, the majority of which have been Tetricuses At Farringford, the seat of the poet laureate, Tetricuses have also been found

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

It is a real pleasure to us to speak favorably of this article, known almost universally to be a good and safe remedy for burns and other pains of the body, It is valuable not only for colds in the winter, but for various summer complaints, and should be in every family The casualty which demands it may come unawares —Christian Advocate

PAIN KILLER, taken internally, should be adulterated with milk or water, and sweetened with sugar if desired, or made into a syrup with molasses. For a Cough and Bronchitis, a few drops on sugar, eaten, will be more effective than anything else. For Sore Throat, gargle the throat with a mixture of Pain Killer and water and the relief is immediate and cure positive

AMONG THE MOST IMPORTANT
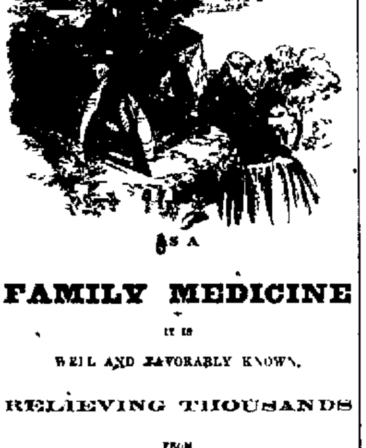
STANDS
HENLEY'S
ROYAL BALSAM.



AS A
FAMILY MEDICINE
IT IS WELL AND FAVORABLY KNOWN, RELIEVING THOUSANDS
FROM COUGHS, COLDS,
Bronchitis,
ASTHMA, CROUP, HOARSENESS,
WHOOPING COUGH,
Influenza,
AND
OF THE Chest and Lungs.

THE ROYAL BALSAM !

HAS NOW BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR A length of time and wherever used is highly recommended, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction, but, on the contrary all are delighted with it and speak in the highest terms of its magical effects The astonishing efficacy of the ROYAL BALSAM, in curing the diseases for which it is recommended entitles it to the highest rank among the list of medicines and no family can be without it after once trying it

Read the following testimonials from some of the most prominent citizens of Oregon

MIRACULOUS CURE.

DR. HENLEY—Dear Sir I feel it but a duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my wife She had been affected with a severe cough for several weeks, which had assumed a dangerous feature, for which many physicians have been trying with at any material benefit and all the remedies failed to give her any relief Without relief was got I feared for the worst, in her present condition The cough appeared to be worse at night, she could get no rest—when Mr Randall of this place, advised me to try your Royal Balsam, all other remedies having failed, I concluded to try it, and I purchased two bottles Strange to say, by the time I gave her three spoonsfuls of the Balsam she got relief, and slept, a thing she had not done for three nights previous By the time she had taken one bottle the cough was checked Its effect was truly miraculous as the cure was effectual hence I have no hesitation in recommending the Royal Balsam to all who are afflicted and it appears astonishing to me that medicine of such great merit and I might say magical effect is not more in use My candid opinion is, if persons use it once, they never be without it in the house

Vancouver, March 1, 1867 H COCHRAN

From Wm. Doty.

North Yamhill, July 15 1867

DEAR DR HENLEY—It is with sincere gratitude I undertake to write to you what your Royal Balsam has done for me For the last 1½ years I have been afflicted with a severe cough and what also some of the physicians called the Bronchitis and have spent a fortune to get cured, trying all the physicians and remedies I could but to no purpose Through the influence of my neighbors (for you have a great name with them here) I got a bottle of your Royal Balsam and finding that it relieved me considerable I sent for a half dozen more And now after one month using it I am perfectly cured I gained ten pounds within a month and feel quite a different man I send you this for publication for the benefit of humanity that through my experience others in affliction may be relieved as I have been Yours truly,
WILLIAM DOTY

From Sophia M. Holman.

DEAR DR HENLEY—It is my duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my children Two of them had a very bad cough and cold, I got a bottle of the Royal Balsam, and gave them some at bedtime at home in the morning, and that was all that was needed to cure them I was astonished at not hearing them cough again, but so it was I find if you give it in larger doses it will make the children throw up in an instant, and I think every mother ought to have a bottle of your Royal Balsam in the house in case a child should get the croup for which it is a sure remedy, as it acts like magic on children What I have seen and heard from my neighbors about the Royal Balsam I would sooner depend on it than on any prescription from any physician I have lost two children within the last year of the same disease, had I had at the time a me of the Royal Balsam I am confident my dear ones would be alive now I shall always recommend it to all my friends for I consider it a blessing and Godsend to mankind
Yours truly, SOPHIA M HOLMAN

From Drs. Bell & Parker.

We have sold a great deal of Medicine since we have been in business, and now have fifteen different kinds of Expectorants for sale But Dr Henley's Royal Balsam takes the palm from all In fact we sell six bottles of Royal Balsam to one of any other kind—and really it seems of no use to keep any other During our experience we have never seen any medicine that gives the satisfaction the Royal Balsam does, as is proven by the results daily coming in from the country of old Chronic cases, when nothing else would remove the dreadful cough they had I find it is good for Bronchitis and Asthma We acknowledge it is a pleasure to sell medicine that gives such universal satisfaction
BELL & PARKER
Druggists Oregon City

From W. F. Barber.

DR HENLEY—Dear Sir I had the Asthma for the last four years so bad that it came near choking me I tried all the patent medicines recommended for the cure of Asthma without doing me the least good 'till I was told to try some of your Royal Balsam which on several afflicted with the same disease has performed wonders I am using it now for a week and strange to say I have not experienced anything since and I really believe that I am perfectly cured, anyhow I shall never be without a bottle of the Royal Balsam in the house in case of a similar attack, and I have no hesitation in recommending it to all afflicted with the same disease
I am Yours truly
W F BARBER

From J. H. Morril.

DEAR DR HENLEY—I think it but justice to you that these few lines should be made known to the public for there is so much humbug going on at present in the sale and quack nostrums now a days that I had lost all faith in everything in the shape of medicine I was afflicted with what is called Bronchitis for the last four years, I coughed and wheezed from morning till night and tried all the best physicians in the Atlantic States and in this coast all to no purpose I could get no relief and I really thought there was no relief for me in the world I was induced to try a bottle of your Royal Balsam and it had a most remarkable effect on me and before I had used up four bottles the cough left me and I can talk as loud as anybody my wife and neighbors do not know what to make of it My opinion is that if the value of the Royal Balsam there is not a family in the country that would be without it I think there is not a better medicine in existence for Bronchitis or cough I and the Royal Balsam and I commend it earnestly to all so afflicted to give it a fair trial
I remain yours truly

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible destroying maladies so that they are cured for and cured before it be too late Send them forthwith directly to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

The afflicted are cordially invited to call and satisfy themselves

Persons calling at Dr Gibbon's office or sending for packages of medicines, may rely upon his assurances of confidential secrecy with implicit faith, and expect no more than to be charged with a fair, and mutually satisfactory remuneration for services rendered, considering the circumstances and difficulties of cases, rather than a too prevalent and selfish practice of extortion among quacks and pretenders.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge

CURED AT HOME.
